OUT OF THIS WORLD

Interior designer Beata Heuman's latest fabric design, 'Asteria's Folly', is named after the Greek goddess of astrology and dreams. The printed cotton, which is suitable for light upholstery and curtains, features whimsical creatures, including unicorns and crowned frogs, against a starry sky. There are two colourways, the dramatic black 'Night' and off-white 'Day'. £100 per metre (beataheuman.com).

TOUCH OF LUXE

Luxury is all about detail, something The Invisible Collection knows only too well. Now you can add polish to tired cabinetry and drawers with the 'Message' range - the online platform's first foray into hardware, designed by German interior architect Victoria-Maria Geyer. The 'Sent' handle and 'Unsent' knob designs come in brass and nickel finishes. From £343 each (theinvisiblecollection.com).

TAKE IT OUTSIDE

Continue your interiors palette outdoors with Ceramica Vogue's 'System', a capsule collection of solid-coloured, frost-proof tiles in uplifting shades. Created by Italian interior design studio Marcante-Testa, they are suitable for both interior and exterior use. 'Ferro' (pictured), from £36 per square metre (cervogue.com).
